Introduction

This bibliography was compiled at the Clearinghouse for Junior College Information. Operating in association with the United States Office of Education ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center) project, the Clearinghouse acquires, indexes, abstracts, and disseminates relevant materials in the junior college field. Arthur M. Cohen is director of the Clearinghouse; John E. Roueche and Lorraine Mathies serve as associate directors.

Compiled at the request of the National Faculty Association of Community and Junior Colleges, this bibliography draws attention to those who teach in community and junior colleges. Documents that relate to teacher characteristics, teacher preparation, teacher evaluation and improvement, and teacher salaries and working conditions are therefore included in the bibliography; materials specifically related to the process of teaching or methods of teaching in the junior college are not within the scope of this compilation. Only documents that have been written and/or published since 1962 are included.

While much has been written about the importance of teaching in the two-year college, little research has been completed on those who actually teach there. With over 850 community and junior colleges in existence, more attention must be focused on the professional needs and interests of those who teach in two-year institutions.

As professional needs and interests are identified, services such as the preparation of specialized bibliographies and document analysis are within the scope of Clearinghouse activities.

How To Use This Bibliography

BY AUTHOR OR SOURCE:

Entries in this bibliography are arranged alphabetically by name of author or source. For ease in indexing and reference, a number has been assigned to each entry. The user who knows the name of the author may locate the entry in the usual way. Documents for which no author is listed may be found by source of publication.

BY SUBJECT INDEX:

Users may wish to determine what has been written about a specific question or topic of interest. For user convenience in such investigations, each entry has been listed under one or more of the subject index terms designed especially for this bibliography; numbers following each index term are those assigned to documents in the main listing.

The user should first translate his question into terms used in the index. Having a carefully stated question, he should find in the index those terms which are relevant; here he may find his own exact words, or synonyms, or related terms. His search may become more precise if he can apply more than one term to his question. For example, a user looking for documents regarding the use of academic rank in evaluating and promoting the community junior college teacher would find seventeen documents in the subject index under "Teacher Evaluation." Of these, only numbers 172 and 177 are indexed under "Academic Rank" and only number 172 is listed under "Teacher Promotion." The reader finds number 172: Tillery, Dale. "Academic Rank: Promise or Peril?" Junior College Journal 33: 6-9; February 1963. Similarly, consultation of "Staff Utilization" and "Part-Time Instructors" would lead another reader directly to number 91: Kennedy, Gerald. "Preparation, Orientation, Utilization and Acceptance of Part-Time Instructors." Junior College Journal 37: 14-15; April 1967.
